Haliburton jobless rate hits 30%

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Almost one-third of the workforce in Haliburton County is looking for employment.

According to Jane Selbie of the Haliburton County Employment Services office, 1,447 people were looking for work in December, which represents 32 per cent of the county's workforce of 4,500.

"We've been extremely busy, and there are not a lot of jobs listed," says Selbie. Most of the centre's efforts have been directed at unemployment insurance claims and placing people in job training programs, because businesses aren't hiring.

There are 300 more people looking for work as compared to the same time last year, when 1,155 people were registered with the centre. This is an increase of 25 per cent.

"In addition to those people who are on seasonal lay-off, we are also seeing a number of people with year round employment who would not normally be laid-off, but whose employers have let their staffs go with the intention of recalling them later in the year," she said.

An example of this is the PineStone Inn which, at the beginning of December, announced the temporary lay-off of about 100 employees until the resort re-opens in the spring.

Although most of the people registered with the centre are currently unemployed, there are a few who are already employed but are looking to change jobs.

Selbie says it's hard to say which sector has been hit hardest in terms of employment and that people from many different industries are looking for work.

The office has just finished placing five people on a community work program clearing snowmobile trails and Selby says she hopes other work programs can be arranged.

While the employment centre is busy dealing with the in-

Thieves raid 13 stores in Haliburton

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Thieves went on a rampage in Haliburton Village last week, breaking into a total of 13 offices during two different nights.

Sometime between the night of Saturday, December 27 and Sunday, December 28, nine stores and offices were broken into. Most of the establishments were on Main Street in the village, but the Ministry of Natural Resources Fire Centre, the Harvest Dining Lounge on Maple Street and a business in the industrial park were also hit. A total of $1,150 was taken in the weekend raids.

Then on Wednesday night four more buildings were broken into including the Haliburton Legion and another business in the industrial park. Approximately $1,000 was stolen from the four buildings.

Minden OPP are operating under the assumption that all the break-ins are related. Police say the thieves were looking for cash and, in some instances, passed up expensive merchandise to get to the cash registers.

The investigation into the break-ins is continuing and no arrests have been made.

In their search for cash, the thieves expended a great deal of effort and came away with very little reward.

In order to break into Intra Town and Country Travel on Saturday night, the thieves

Nurses laid off by local VON

by Susan Grober

Three registered nurses have been laid-off from the local Victorian Order of Nurses, and their job duties have been taken over by registered nursing assistants.

On December 23, the VON issued lay-off notices to one full-time and two part-time RNs working out of the Haliburton VON office (making a total loss of two full-time RN positions).

Lyn Linton, Executive Director with the VON's branch office in Peterborough, told The Times the move was made for more cost-efficient, streamlined operation of the Haliburton office.

"With all the changes coming in health care, it's just part of the long term health reform," said Linton.

The VON provides nursing care to patients at their homes. Traditionally, only registered nurses have worked out of the VON. However, Linton said many clients don't require the full services of a registered nurse, who is generally paid $5 more per hour.

"Can we afford to put an RN in a home, when an RNA can do the job? Maybe these changes should have occurred long ago."

She said the movement to hire RNAs is happening across the province.

But out of the three counties for which the local branch office is responsible, only Haliburton has laid-off any employees.

Linton said this is because there is a higher turnover of employees in Peterborough and Victoria counties. So when some of the registered nurses have retired or quit, they've been replaced by RNAs.

"We're not abandon-

VON staff changes will save money says director

ing Haliburton," said Linton. "We're providing the same service, and the same quality of service will be there."

The change means there will be one full-time RN, and two full-time RNA position at the Haliburton office.

Previously in Haliburton, there were four full-time positions, with three full-time RNs, and one full-time RNA.

"At the VON, we've always only hired RNs, but that's changed over this past year," said Linton.

In looking at the reasons for the change, Linton said: "The cost factor is very important. People are looking for more accountability and more restraints."

But Linton expressed concern that people will think the only consideration for the cuts was money. Instead, the changes will make for a more responsible operation of the VON, she said.

"It's just streamlining and cutting costs, and doing the job more efficiently."

She also said the change in policy will create jobs for RNAs in Haliburton County. "It's a new road for them to take, by being part of community nursing. It's nice to see them integrating so well."

Linton said the challenge now is to determine which cases require the help of RNs, and which can be serviced by RNAs.

"The RN will focus on the ongoing assessment of a client to determine whether he or she is deteriorating or improving," said Linton. "The RN is also responsible for developing the plan of care."

"A client may start off with an RNA, and then require an RN if his or her condition deteriorates."

Linton said nurses employed by the VON must obtain a medication certificate, which allows them to dispense oral medication.

The Peterborough, Victoria, and Halibur-ton branch VON celebrated its 50th anniversary last January.

"There are 160 employees in the branch, and only two have been laid-off," said Linton. "And, unfortunately, this happened in the Haliburton office."

Since its introduction in the county in June of 1974, the local VON has provided service seven days a week, 24 hours a day.

The Haliburton VON services about 120 clients, and makes 600 to 800 visits each month.

Thieves were after cash

came in through the roof, breaking a six-foot hole into the ceiling to get into the office and found no cash to steal.

"Other than a lot of damage and a spectacular break-in, nothing was stolen except a box of mints and a letter opener," says owner Anne Larcade. "We don't keep money on the premises, I don't see why they would break in here."

Since the break-in, measures have been taken to ensure that the roof can not be used as a method of entry for any future break-in attempts.

Larcade has worked with the police during the investigation and says they are doing the best job possible with the staffing constraints under which they operate.

She says businesses should lobby the police to ensure all leads are followed up and an effort is made to ensure similar crimes aren't committed in the future, including increasing the amount of patrols in the area.

While many people blame the recession and higher employment rates for the increase in break and enters, Larcade says that is just an easy excuse to cover problems in the justice system.

Employment centre asks county to cover $6,300 budget deficit creased workload, Selbie is also faced with a shortfall in government funding.

The Haliburton office is an outreach agency funded by the federal ministry of employment and immigration and sponsored by the County of Haliburton.

As result of employment equity, staff wages have increased but the centre's budget has been frozen since last year. With the increase in salary costs and no increase in funding, Selbie says her office needs an additional $6,300 to meet the current shortfall.

Although the budget freeze took effect last year, Selbie was able to cover the deficit by using some special needs funding from the government and cutting costs were ever possible.

In 1992 however, the extra funding won't be available and there are no costs left to cut.

"This year the money doesn't exist and there is no leeway to be able to cover the excess costs," she says. "We shop carefully, recycle paper to keep costs low and ended our janitorial service. I don't know how much more we can cut and still provide full-time service to the community."

Because the county sponsors the employment agency and administers the government funding, county council has been asked to cover the $6,300 shortfall.

Selbie says ministry offices in Peterborough and Toronto have become involved in trying to find a solution to the economic situation and there may be government funding available so the county will not have to carry the shortfall alone. There is also the possibility of renegotiating the centre's contract to reduce the hours of operation, but Selbie says she doesn't think that will be necessary.

Snowmobiler dies in water

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

A Richmond Hill resident became Haliburton County's first fatality in 1992 when his snowmobile went through the ice early in the morning of January 1.

Keith Bell, age 26, died when his snowmobile went into the icy waters of Twelve Mile Lake at about 3 a.m. last Wednesday.

According to Minden OPP, Bell was returning from a New Year's Eve party with a friend when the two men became separated.

The other snowmobiler assumed Bell had returned to the party and did not begin searching for the missing man until daylight. Police were contacted when Bell's helmet was found floating in open water.

The body was retrieved from the lake at about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday afternoon. Police are warning snowmobilers to use extreme caution when travelling on lakes because there are still many areas where the ice is unsafe.

Minden post office not immune to closure

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Although there are no immediate plans to close Minden's post office, concerns are being raised about the facility's future.

For the past two years, Canada Post has been systematically closing small, rural post offices. In some cases service is being provided in retail postal outlets operated from private businesses. In other areas residents are being forced to travel to larger centres for postal service.

Locally, the Norland post office was closed in the summer of 1990 and a retail postal outlet was established in the Norland Trading Post.

Minden Post Master Dorian Malloy says he doesn't know of any specific plans to close the Minden post office, but the government is planning to close all small post offices in the next five years.

"They are closing up any post office where the post master retires," he said. "It's been the general trend and they are going to be stepping it up in 1992."

Malloy is still a long way from retirement and no changes to local postal service are planned for the immediate future, but the post master says that doesn't mean the facility's future is secure.

"They could offer me a job in a larger centre tomorrow and tell me that is where I am going, then there would be a vacancy here, and who knows what they would do."

Minden council recently passed a resolution requesting that Canada Post put an end to the closure of government post offices and that local services be maintained.

"The council of the Corporation of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden is firmly opposed to any reduction of the normal service to which our population is entitled," says the resolution. "We do not accept, and will not accept at any time, that our community be penalized by the planned reduction in service."

"Our council desires a guarantee that our municipality will not have to suffer any form of discrimination regarding the quality of our postal services...Erosion of this type deals a direct economic blow to all citizens in rural Canada and to the economic welfare of Canada as a whole."

There are concerns among some residents that the erosion of postal services has already begun.

In a letter to the editor which appears in this week's paper, Minden resident John Ellis complains about the increase in fees charged for post office boxes and the fact that he had to pick up a package at the Corner Store Emporium, which operates a full retail postal outlet.

Malloy says packages sent to rural route customers have been sent to the Corner Store outlet for more than a year.

He says because the Corner Store is open seven days a week, and has longer hours than the post office, it gives rural route customers more flexibility in when they can pick up their parcels.

"It's been that way for a while," he says. "If someone is upset about it now, it's probably the first package they've received since the change."

Year In Review

It seems appropriate that the federal government implemented its seven per cent Goods and Services Tax at the beginning of 1991.

Because throughout the rest of the year, the main concern of many locals was money.

Along with the GST, people in the county faced tax increases, budget cuts, rising prices, and job losses — all this while we were in the throes of a recession.

There were many other major events, from the Gulf war to our own local elections. The following is a run-down of some of the happenings in 1991:

The Goods and Services Tax was the first thing to hit the pocketbooks of local consumers this year.

When the GST came into effect on January 1, local business owners were forced to deal with price changes, learn new accounting practices, and register for the tax with the federal government.

Finance Minister Michael Wilson said the tax is necessary to make Canadian products more competitive in foreign markets, and to generate an estimated $2 billion a year in revenue to help fight the deficit.

By the summer, a number of store owners took advantage of the public's distaste for the tax, by staging 15 per cent off sales where neither the provincial nor federal sales taxes were charged.

Instead of collecting the sales taxes from customers, store owners paid the taxes themselves.

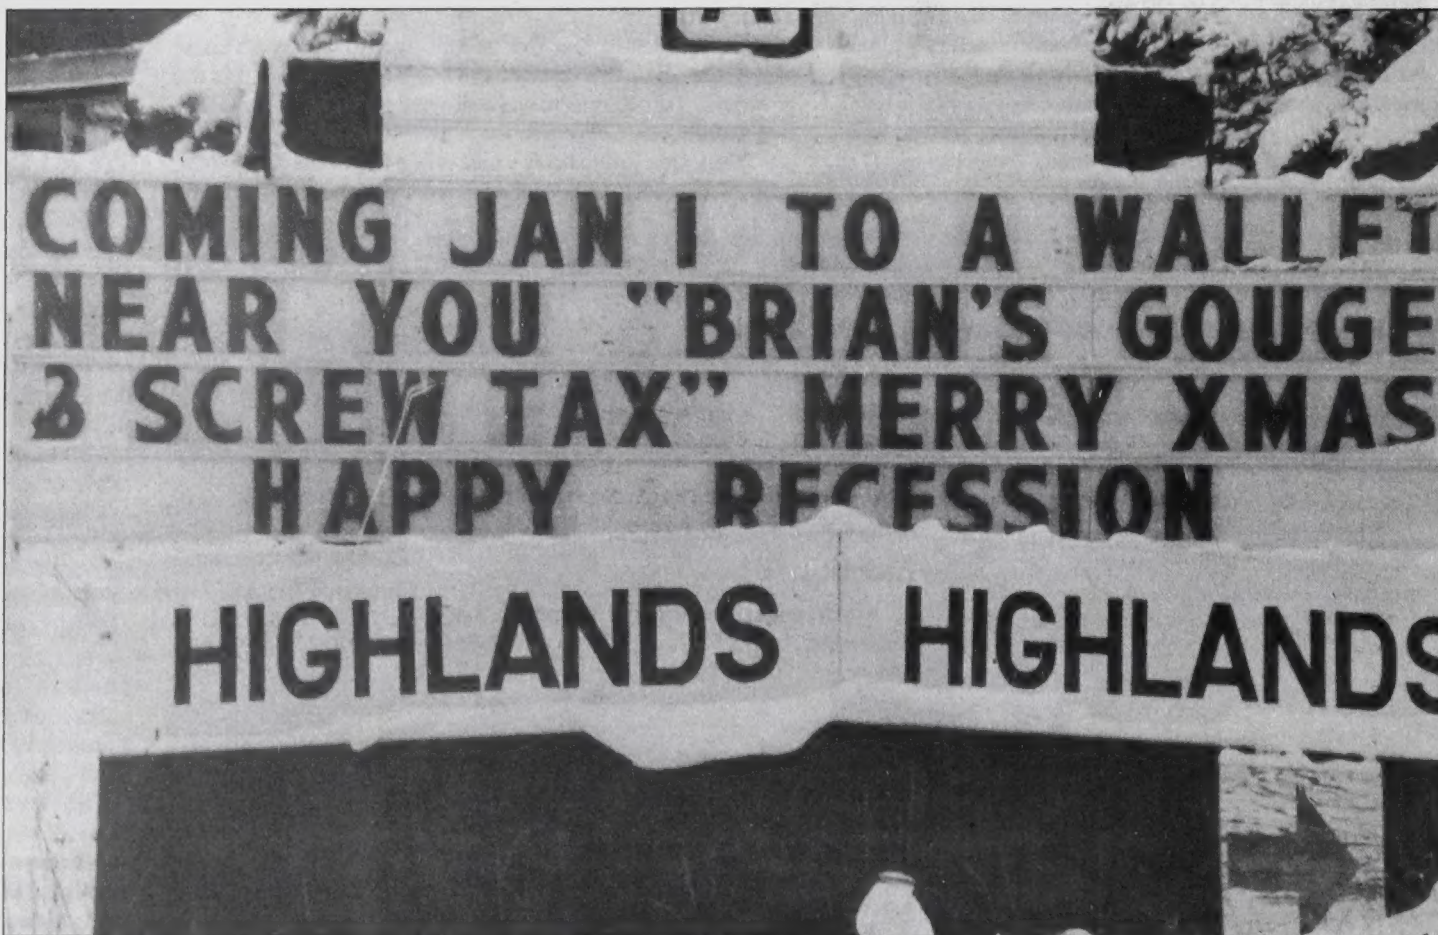

In January, about 25 people attended a peace rally held at the Minden cenotaph, in response to the growing threat of war in the Middle East.

While condemning Iraq's August 2nd invasion of Kuwait, the rally participants called for more time to allow economic sanctions to take effect and a peaceful resolution to the Persian Gulf crisis.

Several days later, on Wednesday, January 16, bombing in Iraq was the start of the Gulf War.

To show support for Canada's troops in the Persian Gulf, a number of people throughout the community displayed yellow ribbons outside their homes.

Also, ribbons made of painted plywood were distributed by the Minden Legion — these ribbons could be found on flagpoles outside such places as the Legion, the Ministry of Natural Resources, Ontario Hydro, the county cairn, the county office, and the mumunicipalities of Stanhope and Minden.

Highlands Theatre owner Keith Stata had this message about the GST on display for patrons and passers-by.

However, Lutterworth council caused quite an uproar in February by refusing to mount a ribbon on its flagpole.

After several months of angry exchanges, the United Church and Reform Church finally reached an agreement in January allowing both congregations use of church buildings in Gooderham and Highland Grove.

The dispute over control of the churches began after a group of United Church members quit in order to join the Reform Church.

The decision to leave was primarily based on a difference of opinion over the United Church's stand allowing the ordination of practising homosexuals.

After the split, both congregations laid claim to the buildings, and each church installed its own set of locks on the doors.

In early January, however, an arrangement was worked out between the two groups, specifying the times each congregation would have access to the church buildings.

Furthering the spirit of co-operation, the United Church struck a special committee to oversee the transfer of membership from the United Church to the Reform Church for those who wished to switch.

After six years of waiting, it finally came. The county will get up to 30 long-term care beds, MPP Dennis Drainville announced in late September.

Accompanying the announcement was a promise of $2.3 million for capital expenditures in the county. The funding from the province was set aside in 1989 pending the completion of a comprehensive study of the county's long-term health, housing and social service needs.

A local committee is to be formed in January of 1992 to decide where and how the money will be spent to provide the beds in Haliburton County.

The province will also conduct a feasibility study on possible redevelopment of the Minden Hospital and Hyland Crest Home Senior Citizens' Home to provide long-term care, flexible respite and convalescent care, and emergency out-patient care.

A third project will involve renovations to support ambulatory and diagnostic services at the Haliburton Hospital.

The comprehensive needs study was completed in April, by a committee formed in December of 1989, after the province postponed plans for an approved 18-bed chronic care addition to the Haliburton Hospital.

The more than $400,000 raised by the community to support the 18-bed expansion will be used in the implementation of recommendations in the directional plan, as will the more than $200,000 set aside by the county.

Among the study's recommendations were: a proposal for 40 additional long-term care beds to be divided between Minden and Haliburton villages, a comprehensive transportation system in the county, and a single access point for community based services. A long range proposal suggested the establishment of a central county hospital mid-way between the two main villages.

After much debate throughout the county, Snowdon council made certain in February that we wouldn't see county-wide market value reassessment being passed in 1991.

Snowdon was the sixth municipality in the county to pass a resolution asking that the proposed reassessment be deferred in favour of more study and public input.

If implemented, all properties in the county would be reassessed at their 1988 values for the purpose of determining property taxes.

Lakefront property owners led the crusade against the market value plan.

They felt the resulting tax hike would make it too expensive for most people to afford lakefront properties, creating an economic impact on both the township and county level if cottage development declines.

The issue reared its ugly head again in November, during the final meeting of the current county council members.

But the councillors ended up passing a resolution to defer the issue, and to ask for updated market value reassessment figures for consideration by the new council for possible implementation in 1993.

The 35 per cent solution

Many members of the community were aghast when county council passed its 1991 budget in March, asking property owners to hand over 35.7 per cent more than in 1990.

In outlining some of the factors that led to the tax increase, council noted the county had to pay off an $84,000 deficit from 1990 and is facing higher costs for welfare, health services, and the Children's Aid Society, areas over which council has little or no control.

Also included in the budget was the county's share of major initiatives undertaken this year, including the Waste Management Master Plan, a county-wide official plan, and an economic development program.

Cuts hit Chamber hard

One of the most controversial moves county council made with its 1991 budget was a 53 per cent cut in the county's contribution to the Chamber of Commerce.

In 1990, the county provided the Chamber with $70,000. In 1991, the Chamber requested a grant of $73,000 — but was only given $32,700.

At the end of August, the Chamber board of directors announced a lack of money would force it to suspend day-to-day operations at the Chamber office.

So the county provided an additional $8,000, and two individual municipalities pitched-in, with Dysart providing $5,000, and Stanhope $2,500.

Financial watchdogs

A group of local citizens also fought back against the county's 1991 budget by forming a "tax watch" coalition.

Organizers Gary Kenney, of Minden, and John Beachli, of Haliburton, also produced weekly Community Tax Watch columns for the local newspapers, discussing their concerns of how public funds are being spent.

The coalition couldn't persuade county council to budge on its budget. But it did manage to push fiscal restraint to the forefront of this year's municipal election campaign.

The movement culminated into an all-candidates meeting for the positions of reeve, deputy-reeve, and school board trustee.

In preparation for the meeting, the coalition sent a 14-page questionnaire to each county and school board candidate. The majority of candidates agreed to return the questionnaire, although many refused.

Election '91

During annual spring and fall seminars, the Federation of Ontario Cottagers' Associations encouraged its members to vote — and vote they did. The November election brought a flood of cottagers to the polls.

In Minden, Bern Berry won the reeve seat on the strength of support from seasonal residents. On election day, Berry only received 318 votes, while Verne Graham got 414 — but during an advance poll, Berry garnered the winning 475 votes to Graham's 203.

And Lutterworth's new acclaimed reeve, Cam Ecclestone, will face a great deal of travel during the coming three years. Ecclestone is a cottager who resides in Toronto.

There are other changes to county council: Chris Hodgson replaced the retiring Bill Davis as Dysart's reeve, winning over Sid Cooper; Beverly MacDuff was chosen over Glamorgan Reeve Bob McCausland; and Fred Gardner beat Ann Barker as reeve in Stanhope, a position formerly held by the retired Harry Davis.

Meanwhile, Snowdon township saved on all the costs of running an election, as all positions for council and school board were acclaimed.

Employees laid-off

In November, the PineStone Inn announced about 90 employees would be laid-off as the business would be closing for the winter.

The decision to close the county's largest resort until spring was made by shareholders to cut losses and concentrate on the May to October season.

Reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic

To answer its accommodation problems, in October the Haliburton County Board of Education voted to turn J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School into a junior high facility for students in Grade 7 to 9, and to pursue funding to build a new elementary school on board property near the high school.

Along with this long-term plan, the board okayed the start of construction on a $3 million addition to Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden, where 240 of its 600 students are currently in temporary accommodation.

The overall decision angered some trustees, particularly those in Minden. Later, the board agreed to hold public meetings to allow input on the decisions.

Now do we have to watch our language at meetings?

Equal opportunity finally came to the Minden Rotary Club on September 9, when Shirley Kuni and Jeanne Anthon were the first women inducted into membership in the group.

When Ron Gambell became Rotary president in July, he decided it was time to open the local club's membership to women. Although the idea was previously proposed, there was a lot of hemming and hawing among members, he said. However, when Gambell proposed membership for Kuni and Anthon, the women were accepted by a unanimous vote of the 10 member board, and no objections were heard.

Women have been involved in Rotary since 1985, when a group in California inducted women into their membership.

Rotary headquarters in Chicago reacted by pulling their charter, but the California group took it to the U.S. Supreme Court and won. Now there are 30,000 women in Rotary worldwide.

And, although Kuni and Anthon are the first women to join the Minden Rotary Club, they certainly won't be the last.

Membership in Rotary is possible only by invitation — and soon after the local women were asked to join, another Rotarian asked for a form for a woman he wants to propose for membership.

Court cuts show poor judgement

Many were riled when the province decided to reduce the number of Criminal Court sessions in the county.

Starting May 1, half of the scheduled court days in Minden were transferred to the court in Lindsay.

Prior to the change, criminal court cases were heard in the Minden municipal building on the first four Wednesdays of every month. With the change in scheduling, court days now alternate between Minden and Lindsay.

Minden Reeve Bern Berry told county council the reduction is the first step in eliminating the service in Minden entirely.

In September, Ontario Attorney General Howard Hampton said the court days were transferred to accommodate non-residents of Haliburton County who were required to return to the area to answer criminal charges.

Furthermore, he described the court facility in Minden as "inadequate" because it does not meet government requirements for wheelchair access, and lacks any secure holding cells for individuals in custody.

At that time, MPP Dennis Drainville pledged to support county council's concerns, but said in conversations with Hampton there was no indication all court services would be withdrawn from Haliburton County.

Smoke gets in your eyes

Despite some accusations that it was backtracking on policy, the Haliburton County Board of Education opened the doors to allow smoking on school property outside board buildings.

In February, a slim majority of the board voted to rescind the fourth part of its policy which prohibits smoking on school board property.

The vote was in response to a request by elementary school teachers who wanted the right to smoke outside their schools. Some had been lighting up inside their cars and weren't sure if this was in contravention of board policy.

Although elementary level students are still prohibited from smoking on school grounds, trustees who opposed the change in policy felt it unsuitable for teachers to smoke on school property.

Editorial

Early last year, Haliburton's county council made a decision to put economic development on hold in favour of pressing ahead with the proposed official plan.

Hindsight being clearer than foresight, it is quite evident that council made the wrong choice.

With a local unemployment rate of more than 30 per cent and a growing list of bankrupt businesses, it's difficult to defend putting any other issue ahead of economic development. The county has said it needs public participation to successfully develop an official plan. So far, attempts to involve the residents of the county in the official plan process have not been met with overwhelming enthusiasm, and when we consider that one out of every three bread-winners is looking for a job, the lack of interest in the official plan is not surprising.

Tourism and cottaging are the two primary activities which drive Haliburton's economy. Recreation is the first area to suffer during a recession and will be the last to recover. As a county, we can not sit back and wait for Toronto's economy to recover and hope to see immediate benefits. If, as predicted, Canada's economy turns around by the middle of 1992, Haliburton County should be prepared for another disappointing summer and another tough winter.

Between the county, the Chamber of Commerce, the two Business Improvement Areas, service clubs, social agencies, employment and development services and our representatives to the federal and provincial governments, there should be enough resources and ideas to provide some direction to economic recovery.

Until people are back to work, there is little point in proceeding with an official plan which will largely be ignored by a population more concerned with dollars and cents than with clauses and sub-clauses. Every effort should be directed toward enhancing the economic activity already present in the county and finding new ways to attract money and jobs to the area.

The superstitious suss out the future

*The moving finger writes; and having writ,
Moves on: nor all your Piety nor Wit
Shall lure it back to cancel half a Line
Nor all your Tears wash out a Word of it.*

Edward Fitzgerald

Ah, the bewitching allure of prophecies. Wouldn't it be wonderful if we knew for certain that some soothsayer really could peer into the murk of the future and announce "This, this and this will happen — bet the house on it."

It's a rational absurdity, but that doesn't prevent us from mooning over the possibility — or from guiltily checking our horoscopes just before that big job interview.

The human race has long been obsessed with the idea of sussing out some inside track to the future. Superstitious tious Ancient Greeks religiously humped up the slopes of Mount Parnassus to lay a few drachmae on a coven of cave-dwelling priestesses at Delphi.

The Delphic Oracles were popularly believed to have a direct line to the future.

In the time of the Caesars, Roman spin doctors routinely mashed up pigeons and goats, then rolled up their toga sleeves and reached in to find out what the animal innards could tell them about what was coming down.

The Chinese invented the I Ching. The French gave us Tarot Cards.

Gypsies introduced us to the crystal ball — and even today, you don't have to twist your radio dial too far before you run into some hot-line "psychic" telling phone-in callers whether or not they should marry/enlist/paint the garage.

And, truth to tell, there have been some fairly impressive seers down through the ages. Mother Shipton springs to mind.

She lived in England during the time of Henry VIII. Mother Shipton was your archetypal crone — long bony nose, bulging eyeballs, body like a scarecrow's — but she had a habit of predicting the future.

Council will communicate with new column

As promised in our recent election, your new council is dedicated to improving communication with all residents of the Municipalities of Anson, Hindon and Minden (AHM). Your attendance at the regular council meetings on the second Thursday of every month at 10 a.m. or the fourth Thursday of every month at 7:30 p.m. would be your best opportunity to be informed. But, realizing this is not always possible, we are offering alternatives. We intend to publish this column monthly and cover news of AHM municipal council and committee activities. Suggestions for future columns are welcome - what would you like to hear about?

Another plan to improve communications is to display the council meeting agenda on the Community Board (currently beside the post office and soon to move to beside the community policing building. The agenda is usually available by Monday afternoon of the 2nd or 4th weeks of each month, so check the board or drop into the municipal office for a copy. If you wish to appear before council, notify the office by Friday before the next council meeting.

This column will publish regular meeting dates for all municipal committees as soon as they have been established. All committees benefit from public participation, and you don't have to be a committee member to provide valuable insight. This is an opportunity for you to witness how your municipality is developing and sample which committee you might wish to work with in the future. An involved public is a well-informed public!

Open houses will be held regularly. Council members will meet informally with anyone who drops in and wishes to discuss or present issues in a less restricted atmosphere. The first AHM Council Open House will be February 29th at 10 a.m. in the Council Chambers so please drop by and share some coffee and donuts with us.

The future of supportive housing in our municipality looks bright. At our December 17 meeting, Mr. Bob Beeney, a Director of Staanworth Non-Profit Housing Corp., made a presentation to council for the purchase of land from the municipality. The property is to be used to construct a "supportive housing complex." Staanzworth is a municipally-owned, non-profit housing corporation currently operating two small seniors' buildings and constructing 20 family residences in Minden. The supportive housing

Grinch cheezed off by Canada Post policies

Editor:

A note from the Grinch. Rightly or wrongly, I'm cheezed off with the Post Office. No, no, that's a lie! It's not the Post Office I'm angry with, it's Canada Post Corporation.

First of all, they have forced our family away from the security of an inexpensive keyed postbox, to a totally unsecured rural route box, by the simple expedient of demanding an exorbitant (I believe) increase in post box fees; three years ago of five or six dollars a year, to twenty-six dollars a year ago, to fifty dollars this year (1991)... plus GST! No wonder Canada Post shows a profit!

This makes me angry enough, but the other day I received what I consider the icing on the cake of my slow burn. I received a notice to pick up a parcel. Where? At the Post Office? Not on your nanny! At a corner store about a mile away from the centre of Minden, outside of town.

Now I know that all my mail goes first to the Post Office. Letters and parcels. Why must my mail be handled more than necessary?

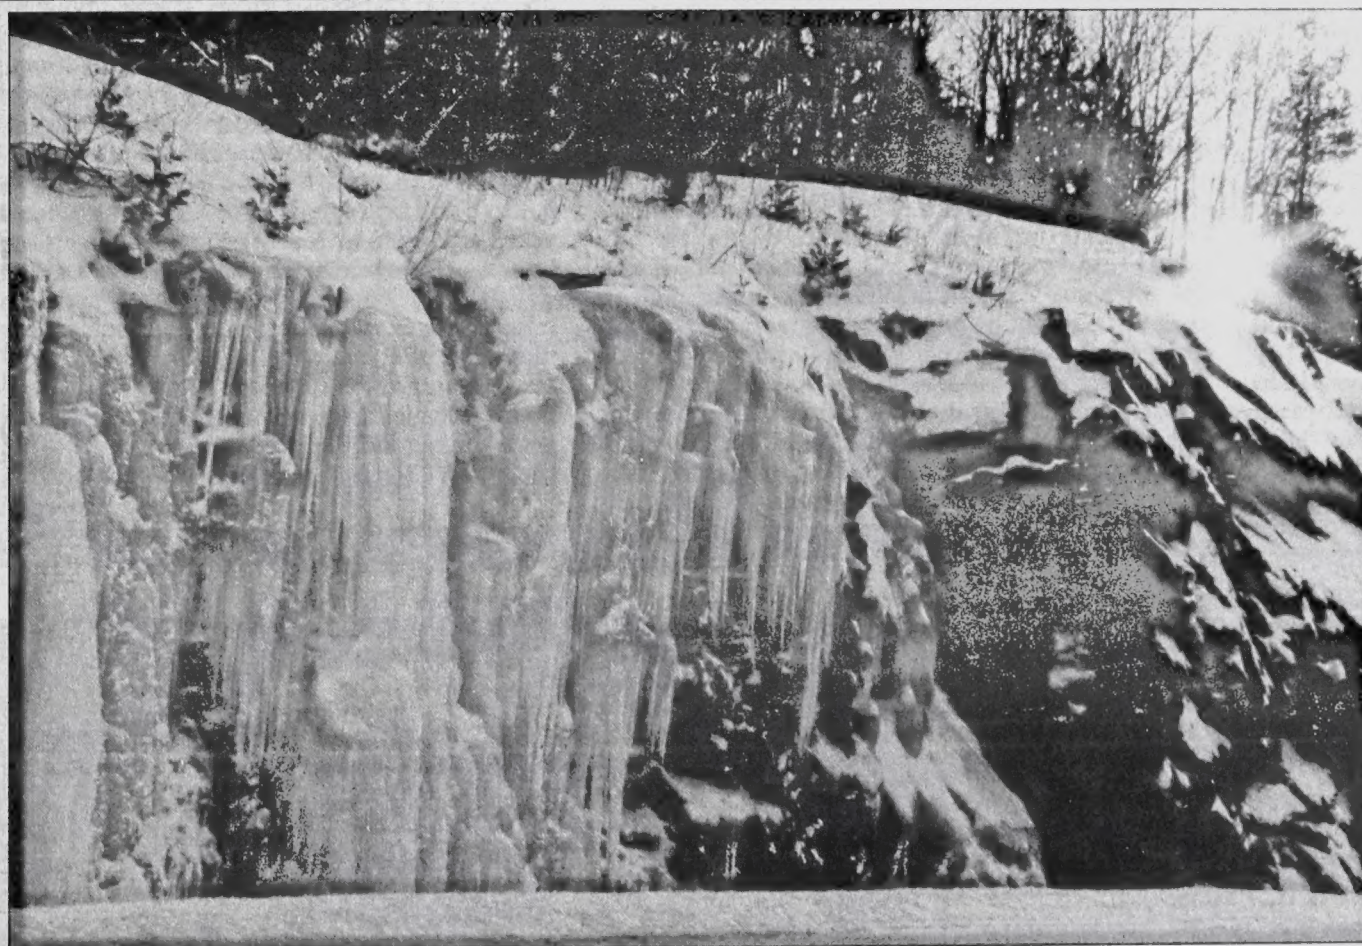

What mandarin made that decision? And who decided that my parcels must be trundled away from the Post Office, by taxi, to that private establishment?

If I may be permitted to editorialize a little, it seems to me to be the thin edge of the wedge to eliminate our Post Office.

If the Post Office is making money, there should be no reason to privatize. For my family, I say: "Give us back our Post Office, Brian!"

16th century predictions so true to life today

(from page 6)

She announced to a somewhat nonplussed Lord Percy, for instance, that, "your body will be buried in Yorke pavement and your head shall be stolen and carried into France."

Three years after Lord Percy scoffed at the old hag, he was killed in battle. By the French. Who cut off his head and took it to Paris.

Some other Mother Shipton predictions:
*Carriages without horses shall go,
And accidents fill the world with woe.*

And also:
Around the earth thoughts shall fly

In the twinkling of an eye.

Plus:

In the air shall men be seen.

In white, in black, in green.

Sounds uncannily like automobiles, telephones and airplanes. Not bad guesses for someone living in the 16th century.

Mind you she wasn't infallible. Mother Shipton also foresaw

The World to an end shall come in Eighteen hundred and eighty-one.

Oh well, three out of four ain't bad.

But far be it from me to run down anyone else's powers of divination — as prophets, we Canucks are world class duds.

"The aeroplane is an invention of the devil and will never play a part in such serious business as the defense of a nation!" Sir Sam Hughes, Canadian Minister of Defense, 1914.

"The 20th century belongs to Canada." Wilfrid Laurier, 1904.

On the plus side, there's this quote:

"Give us twenty years and you won't recognize this country." Brian Mulroney, 1984.

He got that right. In fact he's 13 years ahead of schedule.

Jacknives and Inkwells

by Kenneth C. Hone

This week The Times is pleased to present a look back at the days of one room schoolhouses in Haliburton County, written by Kenneth Hone. Mr. Hone is a Peterborough resident and freelance writer who grew up in Hall's Lake, where his parents Ken and Lucy still reside. His account of school life in the 1950s and '60s will appear as a serial feature during the next several weeks.

Chapter 1 - The Schoolhouse

S.S. number three Stanhope was pretty much like any other one room schoolhouse in Ontario in the 1950s and '60s. The main part of the structure, the class room, sat above a rough stone basement. Like the rest of the building, it was constructed of ship lap lumber painted gray every few years with white trim. At the front a smaller addition housed the cloak room, and later the washrooms which were moved upstairs from the basement, where they had been installed in a corner since the time the outhouses had been removed from the backyard. Still further to the front was the vestibule containing steps which ran up on the right to the cloakroom, and down on the left to the basement. In the basement were large wooden work benches where the pupils took woodworking lessons. Near the door on the left stood the wood furnace, a forty-five gallon drum, cased in sheet metal. A large duct ran upstairs and was topped off with a cast iron gate. A small pile of firewood stood handy to the furnace and on cold days the boy sitting nearest the classroom door would nip down every half hour to put in another piece of wood. The basement was not water tight, the old mortared field stone walls and cracked cement let in enough water in the spring to create a stagnant sea a good foot deep, turning the woodworking bench into a pirate ship or a tropic isle.

The class room measured some eighteen by twenty four feet with a warped hard wood floor and a high ceiling. The walls were framed in with wainscoting up to a waist height and this was festooned with the art work of the back woods child masters. Three windows of single pane glass rose above this on each side letting in lots of sunlight and in the summer, fresh air. It must also be admitted that they let out the imagination of a day dreaming child. Suspended from the ceiling were six huge milky glass globes hanging on chains. On dark days when it stormed and teemed with rain outside, these lights gave a pleasant, dreamy, yellow glow that almost invited you to doze off. Also in suspension from the ceiling were a large, brown globe of the world so dust covered and faded that entire continents became mythical, and at the other end of the room, a hefty rope with a big knot at its end for gripping. This rope ran up through unknown reaches to emerge tied to the iron bell in its cupola on the roof. That bell was actually only rung on those spring and fall days when children might be scattered at noon for an eighth of a mile on various adventures. In all other cases a small brass hand bell was rung.

A goodly amount of furniture filled up this one room making it quite full even without the twenty or so kids crowded in. The pupil's desks were arranged in rows, (usually but not always four) and the rows sub-divided into classes. On any given year there might be anywhere from one to six children in any given class. When I started I believe there may have been as many as four or five in grades one, two and three, but in later years it seems that less and less children were coming into the school and, had I noticed it then I might have understood a little more clearly why it was necessary to finally close that institution. At the head of the room, in between the children and the blackboard was the teacher's desk. This was a huge oak masterpiece of nineteenth century Gothic furniture with railings, ledgers, drawers, shelves and brass fittings and with it a round backed kind of captain's chair, today this set would be priceless. I remember that we were allowed to approach the desk, lean on the desk, perhaps even sit at noon in the teacher's chair, but we must never under any circumstances look in the desk. Oh fascinating desk, what treasures and fears you held! In this drawer might be found Wayne's water pistol (not to be returned till the end of semester), Jimmy's bubble gum or Ruth's compact. In this drawer, might be found a folder with many secrets such as the teacher's real, honest-to-God appraisal of you and your real chances of ever getting out of grade six. But we all knew what was in the top drawer on the right, didn't we? In that drawer resided a greasy, age blackened strap. It was about fifteen inches long, a quarter of an inch thick and two inches wide. I never knew what it was made of, maybe some day I'll find one in an antique shop and it will evoke a shudder in me. I know it seemed to have a kind of fabric running through it and it stung like hell when you got it. Your average boy got it once or twice a year (staying in at recess, writing lines on the board and standing in the corner, having failed) and it was a kind of badge of honor to take it, not exactly like a man, but something like what you imagined a black leather jacketed kid might take it in the movie 'The Blackboard Jungle'. I'll never forget the day Jimmy got it the regulation three times on each hand, then said, "Give it to me again, why don't yah?", and got it again, and then said, "It still didn't hurt, yah old f— bag!" and got it again. At this point the strain in the room was unbearable, the teacher, a basically kind woman was on the verge of tears, Jimmy was in tears but wouldn't whimper and the whole school was on the verge of an emotional collapse. Jimmy got sent home. Us boys thought he was the bravest guy we'd ever known. I'm of mixed feelings about corporal punishment. It was a pretty impressive tradition, but as a form of correction I think it was a failure.

To the teacher's right stood a large old upright piano. Again carved leaves and vines and odds and ends decorated it as well as a ton of rolled up maps, pencil cases, books and paraphernalia on the top. An endless source of amusement was that old upright. On rainy days it was a focal point, especially for the girls, who played chopsticks on it. On that one morning a week when Mr. Hussey the music teacher came it really sounded like a concert grand. Under his magical fingers the cracked old ivory keys produced the richest music I believe I've ever heard. At the back of the room on the left as you came in, stood an oak and glass bookcase, our library. It was crammed with every book that wasn't in a pupil's or the teacher's desk. Hundreds of mouldy old reference works piled in there helter skelter. The vast majority of these works it seems had been published while Victoria still reigned. Pages fell freely from them and whole chapters might be missing. Bindings crumbled and ink stains marred, but rarely was a new work added to the library. Teachers often showed their frustration with the meager resources they had, but money was scarce and the school board not easy to convince. Those books had served well years earlier and were not going to be callously thrown out just because they were a little dated.

At the rear of the room across from the bookcase stood the water cooler on a painted wooden stand. This was a five gallon insulated metal container with a little tap. Beside the cooler hanging on nails driven into the wall were our cups, each with our name above it on a piece of tape. On the stand beside the cooler was an enamel wash basin and soap for busy, dirty kids.

Under the stand on a shelf, poster paints and a can of brushes were stored. When you were bored or stuck with a problem, you could usually saunter back to the water cooler without even asking and kill three or four minutes, until you were told sharply to, "Get back to work and stop bothering Ray!" Once a day everyone had to line up for their pill. Someone had decided that perhaps we weren't eating well enough at home and needed a vitamin. It tasted kind of chocolatey and was all right, I'd have eaten a handful for all that. This was one of the concessions to public health. Once or twice a year another less pleasant act of public health was acted out when a nurse in a real nurse's uniform came and checked us out for head lice. Once one or two of the kids were found to have little friends on them and they were told to go home and wash their hair with coal oil. Then, as now, some kids always seemed to get passengers. Some things never change. Something else about public health too, in those days there were a lot more things going around. As a kid, I had two kinds of measles, red and German, whooping cough, chicken pox, mumps, and I was just your average kid. Above all this was the constant fear of tuberculosis and polio both of which had not really been done away with yet. As a consequence, it seems we were always getting needles. Sometimes it was a kind of syrup or vaccine, and you got to keep the little plastic spoon. I think at one dosing was the first time I ever saw a plastic spoon.

The cloak room was about twelve by twelve. Coat hooks were all around the walls and in the winter the place was literally strewn with boots, mitts, scarves, hats, coats and lunchpails. On one side, washrooms had just been installed. These were just large enough to hold a toilet each, no sinks, the school had no running water. In the middle of the floor was a small wooden grate which didn't do anything but led down to a sawdust bed in which were nestled the septic tanks, the necessary adjunct to the pail a day toilets above. Even though the washrooms were tiny, they were another focal point of activity. During class with a judicious raising of the hand at the right moment you could get out of work and into the john where you might conceivably spend ten minutes daydreaming, whittling a piece of wood or looking at a previously stashed comic book. Sometimes the teacher would forget you were out there and even send out another boy to the washroom and you could have a mini recess together in the washroom.

If the basement was dry it was home to innumerable activities. Soccer or some variation of it was a big thing. Two pieces of firewood set on the floor at either end made a set of goals and with five boys to an end, in that enclosed space, it was busy. Usually we'd have a cheap rubber ball — and could that thing fly. I can still feel the sting of that ball in my face. Man, you'd walk around for fifteen minutes with a cheek like raw liver. Sometimes at lunch, we'd take our cheese sandwiches and put them on a bent coat hanger and stick them inside the furnace and toast them. Then we'd sit swinging our legs on the woodpile and eat our hot sandwiches. Sometimes we'd play a kind of tag where someone had to run and touch all four walls, and others had to be in the middle to stop them. Actually a lot of these games got out of hand and fights would break out. I remember we spent a lot of time fighting.

Next week: The description of the school environment continues and Ken remembers some of the games he and the other children played.

Hartwick wins a pair, overtakes Westside in league standings

Hartwick Construction has picked up two wins in the last two weeks of play in the Men's Recreational Hockey League in Minden. They defeated The Times 6-1 on December 23 and trounced Kountry Double D Catering 7-3 on December 30.

Jeff Stamp led the charge in both games. In the first, scoring two goals, one of those unassisted, and assisted on two others, while in the second he scored five times, once unassisted and assisted on one other.

Other goal scorers in the December 23 contest included Barry Boice with one unassisted and two assists, Dave Dollo, Kevin Hamilton and Sid Mackeigan with a goal and an assist each, and Brian Marquette with a single assist.

The lone Times marker came from Ivan Ingram who scored on an unassisted effort in the second period.

Andrew Burk was in net for The Times while Rob Crowe was the Hartwick netminder.

Home Hardware and Westside Jug City played to a 6-6 tie in the second game December 23. Jeff Howe picked up three goals for Westside and assisted on two others. Jerry Campbell notched two goals and an assist while the single went to Lorne Burgess. Dave Hartwick and Ed Gibbons were credited with three assists each.

Glen Hall picked up two goals for Home, one of those unassisted. Single markers went to Dave Rogers, who assisted on two others, Dean Hewitt with a single assist, Gary Harrison and Carey Gilligan. John Ballantyne picked up a pair of assists with singles going to Ken Barry, Daryl Ward, and Louis Reynold.

Terry Crowe was in net for Home while Ron Telford stood guard for Westside.

A four goal performance by Scott Hamilton and a hat-trick from Tim Hunter, led Kountry Double D Catering to a 9-6 victory over Sid Stamp Fuels in the final game of the evening. Two of Hunter's markers were unassisted. Also scoring for Double D was Tome Haley with a single and two assists and Pete Allore with a goal and an assist. Joachian Matyssek assisted, on four goals while Corey Walker and Harold Cowen got the nod on one each.

Kim Colliss scored three goals for Sid Stamp and assisted on one other. Larry Sawyer notched two, one unassisted, while the other single came from John Fedeski, again an unassisted goal. Paul Walker and Shawn Gilligan picked up two assists each, while singles were awarded to Doug Schell and Dave Pettes.

Kevin Smith was in net for Stamp while Duane (more on page 11)

OMHA Pee Wees beat Ops 4-1

On Saturday, December 21st, Ops visited Minden for a game with the OMHA Pee Wees.

The first period ended up scoreless with both teams missing on the few opportunities each team had. It appeared the boys were thinking more about the Christmas holidays than the task at hand.

In the second period, Ops opened the scoring at 13:50 when Scott Henshall found the net with assists going to Greg Lynch and Michael Moore. Three minutes later, Minden came back to tie the score when Marty Dettman beat the Ops goalie with assists to Daniel Howell and Andrew McKelvey.

Then at 7:04, Andrew

McKelvey scored on a screen shot from inside the blue line, with Jeff Wray and Daniel Howell getting the assists. One minute later, Daniel Howell scored on another

(from page 10)
Lennie was the Double D goalie.

December 30th games

Jeff Stamp once again secured the win for Hartwick in the opening game last Monday, by scoring five goals and assisting on one other. One of Stamp's markers was unassisted. Kevin Hamilton and Sid Mackeigan scored the other two goals as the team marched to a 7-3 win over Kountry Double D Catering. Hamilton also assisted on four other goals while Mackeigan added another assist. Also picking up a single assist for Hartwick was Brian Marquette.

Scott Hamilton scored for Double D, with an unassisted goal and an assist. Other goalgetters were Tom Haley and Peter Allore. Doug Ray and Tim Hunter assisted on two other goals.

Westside and Sid Stamp Fuels played to a 4-4 tie in the second contest of the evening. Scoring for Stamp were Paul Walker, unassisted, Kim Colliss, Dave Pettes and Bart Hillhorst. Ted Vasey, Shawn Gilligan, Pettes and Hillhorst also picked up assists.

Ed Gibbons, Ron May, Barry Shaw and Andy Scholling shared the scoring for Westside with Gibbons also picking up an assist. Dave Hartwick and Jeff Howe notched a pair of assists each while Lorne Burgess received credit for a single assist.

In the final game of the evening, The Times doubled on Home Hardware 8-4.

Craig Crowe scored a pair for the winners with singles going to Kelly Giles, Dan Allison unassisted, Derek Moore, Dan Read and Irwin Asbell. Derek Allison and Doug Allison were credited with three assists each while Crowe got the nod on two and Read and Doug Allison received single assists.

Scoring for Home Hardware were Carey Gilligan with an unassisted effort, John Ballantyne with a single and a pair of assists, Dave Rogers with one and one and Glen Hall with a single. Gary Harrison also picked up a pair of assists.

Men's Recreational Hockey continues tonight at the arena. Stamp play Hartwick at 8 p.m.; Westside takes on Times at 9 p.m.; and Home and KDD play at 10.

Minden Minor Tykes playing well in first half of season

This season the Minden Minor Tykes, team two is off and skating, winning 5 out of 10 games.

Team members are: Alex Lydiatt, Brent Robitaille, Ryan Cole, Jason Lydiatt, Shane Both, Danielle Casey, Kevin Walker, Colin Vator, Matthew Restoule, Matthew Young, Colt Smith and Joshua Young.

The coach is Kelly Young and assisting him are Randy Cole and Richie Lydiatt.

Our update starts on October 17th when Haliburton Visited Minden. Final score 14-0 for Haliburton. Minden players tried hard against an overpowering Haliburton team.

Game two on October 20th saw Bobcaygeon visiting Minden. Minden improved over the previous game, the first period ended with a 3-2 score for Bobcaygeon. Minden could not keep up the pace and lost 6-2. Goals scored for Minden by Colin Vator. Minden travelled to Bobcaygeon on November 1. Bobcaygeon was the strong team, winning 7-0.

Our fourth game saw Fenelon Falls visit Minden.

I don't know what coach Kelly Young said to the players but they got it together and kept it together all game.

Final score was 8-0 for Minden. Goals scored by Colin Vator (5), Danielle Casey (1), Ryan Cole (1) and Shane Both (1). Shut-out for Alex Lydiatt and fine playing for all.

Game five on November 10 saw Minden Team One against Minden Team Two. Ryan Cole opened the game for Team Two in the first. Team One put 2 on the board in the second. First by David Petch and second by Kyle Danilko. Team Two sealed the game in the third with Matthew Restoule tying the score and Matthew Young pushing Team Two ahead. it was good cheering for Minden no matter which way the puck went.

On November 16th we travelled to Fenelon Falls. Our team played hard and came home with a 7-1 win. Scoring for Minden - Shane Both (2), Kolt Smith, Matthew Restoule, Ryan Cole and Colin Vator (2). Alex Lydiatt played strong in goal and was supported by the whole team.

Game seven saw Oakwood visit Minden. Colin

Vator opened the score in the first period. Shane Both added to the score in the third. Oakwood snatched a shout out from Alex Lydiatt by scoring with 21 seconds left in game. Good effort by all. On November 23 Haliburton visited Minden. Final score 5-0 for Haliburton. Minden tried hard but Haliburton was playing a much higher level of hockey. November 28 was the return of Minden vs.

Minden. Final score 4-1 for Team One. Goal scored on Team One - Evan Kernohan four - Team One - Colin Vator. All players on both teams played well. Good job guys and gals.

Our last game to date had Fenelon Falls visit Minden, final score 9-0. Scoring for Minden were; Shane Both (2), Kolt Smith, Colin Vator (3), Danielle Casey, Ryan Cole and Matthew Young.

Shut-out for Alex Lydiatt. Strong play by Brent Robitaille, Kevin Walker, Matthew Restoule and Joshua Young. Fenelon played hard with only seven players.

I'll close by inviting everyone out to see our games. Tyke hockey is a delight to watch because you never know what will happen. It's sure to make you smile, even on a grey winter day.

Rowden has strong game in goal against Ops team

Dave Raback scored unassisted, to make the score Minden 4, Ops 1.

The third period was scoreless, with Minden playing defensively and any scoring opportunities Ops had were repulsed by Justin Rowden in goal. The boys came up with a good effort after the first period. Their record now stands at 12 wins, one loss and one tie.

I would be amiss if special mention was not made of the game played by Daniel Howell who moved up to play left wing from his normal left defense position, when Dennis Woods was not able to play due to an injury, and ended up with a goal and two assists in the game. A fine game, Daniel.

Next home game is Tuesday, January 7th, at 8 p.m., against Cannington.

Sled dog derby has entries but needs snow on trails

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The 1992 Minden Techni-cal Challenge is all set to go, but organizers are hoping Mother Nature will provide a little more snow before next weekend.

"We can probably get by with what we've got, but it will take quite a bit of work to get it up to par," says Steve Loughheed, who is trail boss and one of the organizers of the sled dog derby.

While there is enough snow on the trails to run the event, snow has to be moved on to those areas were the race runs along the road or sidewalks. Each year the municipality's road crew helps prepare the trail for the event.

Loughheed says snow will be brought to build the starting chute on Main Street, and some parts of the trail will have to be groomed and have snow shoveled to cover bare spots.

"It's just a matter of putting snow on certain areas and doing a bit of grooming," he says. "We'll be fine if we get any snow at all. We used to get snow in the winter, I remember it."

Council deals with snowmobile issue

concept is included in the Ministry of Community and Social Services' "Redirection of Long-Term Care and Support Services in Ontario", thus the application for supportive housing is very important to the residents of this area.

Prior to the introduction of Mr. Beeney, Councillor Jerry Rome, also a long term Director of Staanworth Non-Profit Housing Corp., made the following statement: "I believe that I have no legal conflict of interest in Staanworth Non-Profit Housing Corp. However, because of possible public perception to the contrary, I will not take part in the discussion or voting on the request to purchase."

Mr. Beeney made an excellent presentation to this council in regard to Staanworth's mandate to "supply housing for the people." The remaining four councillors, after intensive discussion with Mr. Beeney, voted unanimously to accept the offer from Staanworth. We believe this to be an excellent opportunity for this community to adequately house and care for our frail senior and handicapped residents.

A special challenge to the new council was the decision needed to direct snowmobilers northbound through town.

There has been much concern regarding the traffic in front of our town funeral home where some operators of snowmobiles drive illegally on the sidewalk and within inches of the front door.

In an attempt to reduce this danger, council has directed snowmobile traffic northbound across the bridge, up the Bobcaygeon Road to the municipal parking lot, across the parking lot and the corner of the Sears property, onto the parkland. This route was made possible through the goodwill of businessmen Gord Monk, Allan Cox and the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association Director, Gord Hamilton. We thank them for their special civic co-operation.

There seems to be a number of snowmobilers unaware that it is illegal to ride on sidewalks. Many of our citizens have been terrified by machines trying to share sidewalks. Please inform these operators that they can and will be charged. Snowmobilers contribute largely to our economy and, working together, we can share our community safely.

We invite you to the Grand Open House of the new AHM Community Centre expansion on the 23rd of January at 1 p.m. at the Minden Recreation Complex. Dignitaries will be present and refreshments served.

If you have any ideas how you council can improve communications etc. please drop us a line at the municipal building. Many thanks to Jack Brezina for giving us this space, and do tell your friends to keep informed about your council - read The Times. Your council wishes you a healthy and prosperous 1992!

AHM Council's Calendar of special events:

Your council is pleased to participate in the following community activities:

- Minden BIA meeting Tuesday, January 7th at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers.
- Free skating from 2 to 4 p.m. most Sundays, and sponsored by community-spirited local businesses.
- Minden Techni-Cal Sled Dog Derby January 11 and 12th.
- Community Centre expansion Grand Opening January 23 at 1 p.m.

Derby needs snow to go

This will be the seventh Minden Sled Dog Derby to run in the last eight years. The event was cancelled in 1989 because of excessive ice on the trails.

So far about 60 mushers have registered for the race, which features both four and eight-dog events. Loughheed says the number of entries is close to the average amount and there will probably be a few more racers who enter this week.

Among those who have entered are some of the best sled dog races in the world and winners of past Minden derbies.

"The best have signed up and it will be a good event," says Loughheed. "All we need is some snow."

Meeting middle age with a trek in the wild

Many of us in middle age with sagging paunches, house mortgages paid off and children grown up, dream of taking off and pitting ourselves against the wild.

In the summer of 1987, Vancouver film maker, Michael Poole did, spending three months alone canoeing the spectacular west coast of British Columbia, an area that remains untamed and remote. We can share his voyage vicariously in a wonderful chronicle, Ragged Islands: A Journey by Canoe Through the Inside Passage (Douglas & MacIntyre, Vancouver) that is full of fascinating information and lore and insights into the underlying causes of our environmental crisis.

Poole vividly describes the awesome power when wind, current and tide come together synergistically so a canoeist must use every bit of skill, knowledge and courage to stay afloat.

Drawing on his award-winning films about wildlife and native culture, Poole weaves his accumulated knowledge skillfully into his text. Abandoned villages become opportunities to reflect on their aboriginal inhabitants and their connection with the land: "The governing principle was mutual dependence between man and nature."

"Felling a tree or catching a fish was an act of spiritual exchange, to be done with restraint, humility and gratitude. The Indian was given physical sustenance in return for releasing the spirit of the tree or fish to invest the next generation."

"Waste, greed or abuse of a creature or its habitat would annul the covenant and deprive man of the things he needed to survive." Contrast the consequences of this attitude with effects of our current obsession with profit and short term jobs.

"Despite widespread use of weirs that were

Reflections

by David Suzuki

capable of intercepting every fish and destroying the stocks, the Indians had sustained the runs for centuries. Yet less than 20 years after the white man's canning industry began, the catch on all major salmon rivers peaked and went into decline."

British Columbia's awesome forests and marine coasts teem with wildlife. But newcomers attracted by promises of gold, free land and opportunity were invariably destructive because they didn't belong.

"Coming as they did from pastoral lands and denatured cities, they were overwhelmed by rampant nature, untamed and untamable. Only their precarious clearings in the bush looked anything like a civilized land, anything like home. They were permanently estranged, trapped on alien ground between the glowering mountains and a cold, capricious sea."

And it carries on today with those who log, mine and fish: "The white people who come here park their lives at the airport before they fly in to do their shift. It's a place to be endured, not lived in."

Just as Farley Mowat's Sea of Slaughter documented the massive destruction along Canada's east coast, Poole reports the decimation of B.C.'s wildlife from the relentless pressure of humans attempting to manage their surroundings.

Wolves and cougars were killed for bounties to safeguard cattle, hawks and owls poisoned to save game birds and bald eagles and harbor seals shot to protect salmon.

By 1900, strychnine was used to poison wolves, coyotes, cougars and golden eagles and from 1949, pellets of poisoned meats were spread across vast area of B.C.

The only animals the Game Commission considered worth preserving were cattle, fur bearers and game species; the rest were "vermin."

Brown trout and Atlantic salmon were transplanted to satisfy fly fishermen. British gentlemen farmers brought songbirds, deer, game birds, hares and fish from the old country to "create an ambience of English country life." Atlantic lobsters and Japanese oysters were repeatedly released to try to create a new fishery.

At the Tsitika watershed, Poole takes us into a primeval forest that is home to countless wild organisms but whose ancient trees beckon irresistibly as "an asset to be liquidated for short term profit." Robson Bight, the bay where the Tsitika River enters Johnstone

Strait, is the only place in the world where killer whales are known to rub their backs on beach rocks.

It has become the focus in a classic confrontation between immediate priorities of jobs and profit and long-term productive sustainability.

Poole concludes that it is the loss of communities and self-reliance that binds us ever more tightly to urban centres for even the most basic products.

The less we make ourselves or share with neighbours, the more we become hostages of others elsewhere, captive to the vagaries of market prices and the need to import every bit of fuel, gear, household good and food staples, few can resist taking too much and moving away.

Ragged Islands is a good yarn with some profound points to consider in the ongoing debate about Canada's economic, political and social future.

Remember the 3 R's reduce, reuse and recycle

Cremated remains stolen from Minden home

During the week of December 23-29, officers of the Minden Detachment investigated 22 general occurrences and three accidents with two minor injuries being reported.

Thefts around the county

Prentice Berry Ltd. — Minden — two snow vehicles a 1992 Ski Doo Mach; one red in colour and a 1990 Ski Doo Formula MXLP grey, Ontario licence 664163. Skeeters Restaurant — Wilberforce — cash and cigarettes.

Charged with possession

Sam Fermanov, 18, of Oshawa has been charged with possession of stolen property after being found with stolen licence plates late December 27 in the village of Minden. Fermanov is scheduled to appear in Provincial Court Minden on January 15 to answer to the charge.

Charged with false pretences

Rose Marie Dusome of Minden Township has been charged with two counts of False Pretences after police concluded an investigation into bad cheques written in October 1991. Dusome will appear in Provincial Court in Minden on January 15 to answer these charges.

Charged with assault

An investigation into two assaults which occurred in June 1991 has resulted in charges being laid against Gregory Scheffee, 20, of Dysart Township. Scheffee is summoned to appear in Provincial Court Minden to answer the two assault charges on January 15.

Break, enter and theft

residence, on Caribou Lodge Road, Minden Township, the thief stole a small wooden casket approximately 18 inches long by 12 inches wide.

This casket contains the ashes of Mrs. Budgen's late husband. It would be appreciated if the person who stole this item either contact the police and advise where the item could be picked up and returned to Mrs. Budgen, or contact the family itself and make arrangements to return this very personal item.

If anyone has any information that will assist the police in recovering this stolen item, please contact Constable Brian Sachs at the Minden OPP office 286-1431. Any information received will be treated with strict confidence.

You may also contact Crime Stoppers at 1-800-563-8477, and leave the necessary information with them.

Model forest program will provide valuable information for research

On September 25, 1991, the Minister of Forestry announced a $100 million, six-year Partners in Sustainable development of Forests program, with three components: Network of Model Forests, Improved Biomonitoring and Information Systems, and Enhanced Science and Technology.

The cornerstone of this program is the Network of Model Forests. The federal government - in partnership with the provinces, industry, forest owners, native groups, and environmental organizations - is supporting the establishment of working scale model forests, representing each of the eight major forest regions of Canada.

Each model forest will be managed using state-of-the-art forestry practices, will provide support for forest research projects and will demonstrate a new consensus among stakeholders about sustainable development in practice. Model forests will be managed not only for timber production, but for other values like old-growth, wildlife habitat and forest-based recreation.

Between September 30 and October 7, regional information sessions were held across the country to provide detailed information and advice to potential applicants to the Model Forests program.

Report from Ottawa

from the office of Bill Scott, MP

A competitive process, administered by a National Advisory Committee, was initiated for reviewing the proposals and selecting the model forest sites. Before submitting a formal proposal, applicants were asked to present a brief letter of intent. The response from interested parties across the country was tremendous.

Reflecting the enthusiasm for innovative and co-operative solutions to the diverse forest management issues and problems in Canada, a total of 91 letters were received in the short time between late September and October 25 deadline. Four additional letters were received offering expert co-operation.

Letters of intent representing forest regions and provinces across the country described model forests ranging in size from 240 to 2,000,000 hectares, with an average size of about 200,000 hectares. Approximately one-third of the letters were from the forest industry, one-third from native groups, and the final third from a variety of other groups including provincial governments, universities, woodlot owner associations, and environmental or conservation groups.

Co-operative solutions will be especially important in the cases of overlapping and adjacent proposals. Applicants demonstrated their willingness, and indeed the necessity, to work together by proposing management partners representing a broad array of forest interests.

February 29, 1992 is the deadline for final submission of proposals under the program. This represents a two-month extension of the deadline previously announced. After that time, a technical review committee made up of Canadian and international forest management, ecology and research experts will evaluate the submissions based on an established set of criteria. The final recommendations to the federal Minister of Forestry will be made at the beginning of June. The Minister will then announce the chosen Model Forest sites.

Santa pays a Christmas Day visit to Hyland Crest residents

Happy New Year!!! Today is the first day of a new year — 1992. I am sitting in my room watching a parade in Phoenix, Arizona, that brings back memories. I must return to Christmas.

December 24th was primarily devoted to getting those last minute jobs done. Tuesday morning chapel was conducted by Father Parker.

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

It was a communion service.

Diane Garbutt came in the afternoon to play piano music for us. As it was the holidays, Diane played all Christmas music. That we enjoyed so very much. Anytime Diane is home, she comes to play. We appreciate and thank her heartily.

Christmas Day at last, and Santa and his Elves really were here at 10 o'clock Christmas morning. He was very good to everyone, and did a wonderful job and we thank them immensely.

Many residents went out for Christmas, but those who didn't go out had a delicious turkey dinner with family members. This would be a good time to especially thank the kitchen staff, the nursing staff, and anyone who worked to give the residents a happy day. I left after Santa came and had dinner at Constable Kevin and Claudia Barnum's in Apsley. I went with Terry, Norma, Norma's mother and Rick Barnum who came from Sharbot Lake.

Boxing Day fell on our Thursday Tea Party day. We were so pleased to have the CUPE members at Hyland Crest staff provide the tea party that day. It was a delicious lunch and was also the last tea party in December. Those having birthdays in December had a lovely birthday cake. The ladies and families conducted a game for us to play, something like musical chairs, except when the music stopped, the person

PRIVATE INVESTOR INQUIRIES
WELCOME

Around the County Town

by Jeanne Sears (call 286-1538)

Visiting with Jerry and Ruby Schmidt over the holiday was their grandson James Hawthorne from North Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Harrison had all their family visit them at various times over the holiday season.

Irene Moore was away in Toronto last week enjoying the New Year Season with her family.

New Year's Eve parties went on all over our county and at the Terrace we had a little get-together and enjoyed the taping of Peter, Paul and Mary Christmas show and on January 1st the Victor Borge tape also.

Bradley Robinson of Toronto spent a few days at Christmas time with his mother Florence Robinson.

Moyer and Pennay Hewitt of Tottenham spent a couple of days visiting his mother Beulah Hewitt and other relatives as well.

Joyce Hewitt enjoyed having Colin Hewitt of Fort Francis for his Christmas holiday and the others were also there in holiday time.

Sorry to report that Arnold Cowen and Ivan Ingram Sr. are in hospital with good wishes to them and also pleased to report that Barbara Berry was able to come back to her own home.

Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Jenny Cooper, Anna Tomso and Archie Davidson whose funeral were since last week.

Lynn "Crash" Bibby managed to make it safely to Minden, and spent her Christmas holidays visiting with friends and family.

Janice and Jack Shaw and Florence Robinson spent Saturday with her sister Grace and hubby Ern Voycey at Gamebridge.

Joyce and Blake Hughes and girls from Mississauga visited with his mother Bertha Hughes last week.

Elsie Bursey was away in Toronto for the Christmas season visiting with an old friend.

Basil and Darlene Cox and Amanda Cox of Bancroft were recent guests with Mary Cox.

Several birthdays at Hyland Crest early this month with good wishes to Alice Todd on January 9th and May Horsley on January 17.

A reminder to Women's Institute members their meeting is January 15th at the Library Cultural Centre at 2. All ladies who may be interested are welcome to attend.

Weather seems to be milder so far this winter and with dog sled races on the weekend of the January 11 we are hoping there will be snow for it.

Latest winners in the Lion Club hockey pool are: Dave Brown, Lorna Hicks, Keith Heikkinen, John Marion, Winona Wray.

The Library Committee will meet in the Minden Library on Wednesday, January 15 at 7:30 p.m.

The following relatives visited with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hewitt over the holidays: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thorpe of Brampton, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Davis of Bracebridge, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Beattie and Andrew of New Lowell, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Davis of Timmins. We all had a great time.

Doraine Beatty of Don Mills, Audrey Bell of Meaford and Edith Vamplew of Whitby spent a pleasant week with Doreen and Alfred Powell on Little Horseshoe Lake.

Winners of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 636, euchre held on January 2 were: Lone Hands: Murray

McKinnon and Verna McDonald. High Scores: Eleanor Pye and Orval Francis. Others: Jean Scadden, Lorna Bridgman, T. Weston, Hilda Harrison, Carol Moffat, Ray Brown, Tony Kenneth.

More Senior League notes

with the parcel that was being passed around had to take-off one of the many wrappings it had. When all wrappings were off, the last one won a small gift. Thank you ladies for a happy afternoon. We appreciate your efforts. Residents with December birthdays were Lillian Curry, Louise Bishop, Reg Booth, and John Macklin.

Gladys Whyte had several of her family in after Christmas to have lunch with her. Her daughter, Jean from near Gelert, and others from Montreal and Toronto all came. It was a happy day for them.

Friday, Happy Hour was held as a wine and cheese party with entertainment by Don Aldon, Ted Robinson and Norman Graham. Thank you boys very much.

Sunday evening chapel was conducted by Rev. John Burgess, with Alice Jones at the organ. Thank you both.

Terry and Norma took me out Monday for lunch. It was most enjoyable.

Later, the residents met and had a discussion period in the auditorium, and then Tom McAllister showed movies of the "Little Lost Dog." It was a great story. Thanks Tom.

Tuesday morning chapel was taken by Louise Leonard. It was a heartfelt service, and we thank Louise sincerely.

Tuesday afternoon we had a delightful time listening to Bev Vivian sing. The residents enjoyed her tremendously and thank her heartily.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Les Alton wish to thank all friends, relatives and neighbours for their kindness and sympathy during our time of sorrow. Special thanks to Rev. Randy Warburton and Gord and Kirsten Monk for their help and assistance. We would like to thank everyone for their help and donations of food for the Haven of Rest Chapel. And to all who sent lovely cards, flowers and phone calls at home were deeply appreciated.
Lillian Alton and family.

I would like to thank the firemen, wives and friends for the lovely Christmas carols on Sunday evening before Christmas. It was a nice idea. Thank you.

Souvenir Program for the 1992
Minden Techni-cal Challenge
Sled Dog Derby

Year eight:The spirit continues to grow

Spirit is defined as "the essential characteristic of something, an emotional attitude or frame of mind."

Spirit is what sets the Minden Techni-cal Challenge apart from so many of the other activities all of us are involved in.

Spirit is what attracts so many mushers from all over the world to come and race here in Minden. It is the reason thousands of spectators throng the main streets of this tiny village on the second weekend of every January. and it is what mobilizes a veritable army of volunteers to give freely of their time, talents (and body heat) each year to ensure the successful running of this event.

There is a synergy at work here is Minden on race weekend: the wild unabashed excitement of the dogs, the intense concentration of the mushers, the solid skilled commitment of the volunteers, and the honest appreciation of the spectators all work together to create a spirit of fun and solidarity.

When I stand back from all of this, my thoughts often focus on the benefits we all derive from being involved in this happy event. It isn't often that so many people can get together, work towards a single goal, and have fun doing it. On this one weekend, we are all "in it together." Standing side by side, we accomplish so much!

The spirit of the Minden Techni-cal Challenge is embodied in all of us. Whether we come to compete, to help out, or to watch, we are all part of the special magic that makes this special weekend come alive!

On behalf of Martin Pet Foods and the Village of Minden.

Welcome to the Eighth Annual Minden Techni-cal Challenge!!

Derby Derby to be donned this year by Arthur Black

Popular CBC Radio host and newspaper columnist, Arthur Black, will be the honorary Race Marshall at this year's Minden Techni-cal Challenge Sled Dog Derby. The humourist, author and commentator will officiate at the opening ceremonies of the race, Saturday morning at 10 a.m., assist in the bib draw Friday evening and be a close observer of activities and participants during the weekend. As Honorary Race Marshall, Black will be presented with the official Minden Sled Dog Derby Derby, emblematic of his official status. While in Minden, Black will be interviewing the drivers and sled dog derby enthusiasts. Material from his visit to the community is expected to be presented on his CBC Radio program Basic Black scheduled for January 18. Arthur Black writes a weekly humour column for The Times.

Sled dogs: the best cared for canine athletes in the world

Whether this is your first introduction to sled dogs, or you have visited a sled dog kennel or attended a sled dog sporting event, you may be interested in some of the facts about sled dogs that mushers (dog team trainers and racers) don't seem to have the time to explain because of their preoccupation with their dogs. This is especially true at sled dog races where the driver's entire attention is on his dogs... prior to, during and following the race. They come first, last and always.

Although many sled dogs make good pets, they are not exactly like other domesticated breeds. They come from a long tradition of running in harness. Being a part of a team fulfills their "pack" instinct, and to the sled dog's way of thinking, this the most important, most exhilarating part of his life.

Other sled dogs are the sled dog's "best friends," and he enjoys nothing better than to run with his friends. He and his teammates naturally accept the leadership of the dog which has proven its capability at the front of the team. Unlike old tales that would have believe that lead dogs fight for their superior position... they don't. They earn it in training runs by exhibiting their enthusiasm and intelligence.

The "ultimate" leader of the dog team is the human being on the runners of the sled - the one who cares for the dogs, protects them, houses them, leads them and best of all, takes them out as a team for training and racing runs. A team of dogs is much stronger than any single person can control physically, but by being fair, consistent and considerate, the driver earns the respect of his dogs which willingly respond to his every command.

In order to earn a dog team's trust, the driver must truly love and appreciate his dogs and share in their joy as "partners" on a running sled dog team. Otherwise, the responsibility of maintaining and training a team of dogs can be pure drudgery. Even for the most conscientious dog driver and kennel owner, there are no guaranteed of glory and awards awaiting him at the end of the trail.

There are sled dog teams all over the world, some composed of as little as one dog. Others number in the teens and twenties, and whether it is a one-dog team or a twenty-two-dog team, each animal demands individual attention and care. Only the person who loves and respects dogs can provide that kind of time and dedication.

Everything that the driver does for his dogs will determine what they will do for him. If he does not earn their trust as their leader, the dogs will elect "their own" leader... one of their own kind. When that happens, the dogs become a "pack" instead of a "team," so it is the wise trainer who does all that he can to maintain a healthy kennel of happy dogs that can place their confidence in him.

Competitive sled dogs are among the best housed, trained, fed and conditioned canine athletes in the world. They receive veterinary care that compares with medical care offered to Olympic athletes. Each dog on the team plays an important, individual role, so every effort is made to keep each one in top physical and mental condition in order to keep the team together.

All rules governing sled dog competition - whether it is team racing, skijoring, weight pulling or cross-country trekking - are designed to maintain the well-being of the dogs as a top priority and secondly, to provide a fair contest. All competitors belong to one sled dog organization or another, and all of them were created to promote humane contests where "the best team wins," but actually, none of them are losers.

As you look at all the sled dogs in kennels and at sports arenas, you are looking at some of the best, most cared for athletes in the world. And unlike many other dogs who don't have a choice, they can do what they like to do most under the safe supervision of a "good master."

It may be a dog's life... but sled dogs wouldn't have it any other way.

Personalized posters

Students of Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden have contributed to the excitement of our eighth annual sled dog derby by creating posters depicting their ideas about the race. The results of their efforts can be seen in store windows throughout the community and at lodges, resorts, motels, and restaurants in the area. These young artists have done an excellent job in capturing the colour and fun of the Minden Techni-cal Challenge. We thank them for their participation.

The man behind the mike

For Minden and area residents, the voice of Bill Payne, the Main Street announcer for the Minden Techni-cal Challenge is a familiar one. Over the years, Bill has acted as Master of Ceremonies for many events throughout the Highlands of Haliburton.

Always ready with a quick joke and a friendly comment, Bill has a happy and vibrant outlook on life that serves him well as "the man behind the mike."

Originally from Toronto, Bill has been a resident of the Minden area for over 30 years. During that time, he has worked for Ontario Hydro, operated his own electrical contracting business and is currently head of a real estate firm known (coincidentally) as Bill Payne Real Estate Limited.

Bill is very much a Community man. Over the years he has been involved in the Minden Winter Carnival, the local Cub and Scout pack, a referee for minor hockey and senior leagues, a member of the Kinsmen Club of Minden and charter president of the Minden K-40 Club. He has also served on numerous community boards and committees.

Bill is a popular musician who entertains regularly with a group known as the "Grandfathers Four" at local senior citizens homes.

Bill and his wife Jeanette have been married for 40 years and have four children and seven grandchildren.

This is Bill's seventh year as the Main Street voice of the Minden Techni-cal Challenge.

Joining Bill in our announce van again this year will be Laurie Perry who provides commentary in French especially for the many teams from Quebec and northern Ontario which participate in the Techni-cal Challenge.

Putting the kick back into winter

Thanks to Kari Siirala of Carnarvon and Les Luges Finnsled, visitors to the Minden Techni-cal Challenge can try the Finnish sport of kick-sledding for themselves. Siirala will be demonstrating kick-sleds on Main Street between races and will have sleds available for everyone, young and old, to try. Check it out!

Tips for derby spectators

Sled-dog racing has become a fixture on Minden's winter schedule. Not only does the race attract competitors from throughout North America, but thousands of spectators also come to enjoy the excitement of the world's premiere sprint event. To increase your enjoyment of the race, we would ask that you observe the following rules of spectator etiquette:

Dress warmly. Winter months can be a very "fresh" in the Highlands

Leave your pets at home. the presence of an animal along the race course could cause a team to bolt, seriously affecting a driver's finishing time and possibly resulting in injury to spectators or dogs.

This will be a great occasion for photographs, but please be aware that flash bulbs should be used with discretion. There are enough films on the market now that allow "available light" photos, no matter what the daytime conditions; using them is the preferred method. Pick your spots ahead of time and take pictures without any sudden or darting movements into the line of sight of a team. Prior to and after races, ask the team driver for permission to photograph the dogs so that he/she can control the situation and provide you with the opportunity for a top-notch photo. Finally, please be aware that Polaroid films contain chemicals that are poisonous to dogs and children. Throw the waste into garbage containers; there are lots around.

Keep your children in hand. The dog teams are geared up to race and will be eager to get on with it. They will be prancing about until their turn comes to enter the start chute. Toddlers are best kept at your side or on your shoulders to watch the events.

Don't try to feed the dogs and always clear it with the driver before getting down to pet them. Sled dogs are trained with one purpose in mind: to win races. So show them the respect they deserve. A sled-dog race is no place to show off your innate "way with animals."

Please co-operate with the race marshalls and stay off the race lanes. The main street will provide more than enough room for spectators on the sidewalks.

Please clear the pit area prior to the start of each race. By doing so, you will be providing the teams with the extra space needed to prepare for the race. Keep a sharp lookout at the entrance to the pit area for teams returning from their race and get out of their way. Dogs that were extremely noisy going out are surprisingly quiet coming back and can be underfoot before you know it.

Enjoy yourself. There is nothing quite like a day of sled-dog racing!

Memories for sale

Hear that music? See those hats? Admiring the colourful derby sweat or tee shirts?

For the modest price of $4.00, you can have your own cassette tape of "Catch the Drift", the popular theme song of the Minden Techni-cal Challenge. A Minden Sled Dog Derby hat can be yours for $11.00. Or $3.00 will buy you a packet of humorous hasti-notes to amuse your correspondents.

Special edition "Catch the Drift" sweatshirts are available for $26.00 and tee shirts at $14.00, in a range of sizes.

Copies of this year's colourful race poster are also on sale for $5.00.

These and other souvenirs of this exciting weekend are available from the official souvenir booth in the Floyd Hall Insurance office near the starting chute.

Proceeds from the sale of all these items will be used to support sled dog racing in Minden.

Derby mascot Drifter makes friends with spectators at last year's Techni-cal Challenge. Always a popular attraction at the race, look for Drifter on Main Street, both days of the race.

Skill tested on The Hill

As it has for eight years, the Minden Techni-cal Challenge begins and ends on the town's main street. This downtown location adds to the excitement of the two-day event and provides excellent opportunities for spectators to take in the race.

After leaving the impressive log starting chute which dominates Main Street and crossing the Gull River bridge, the teams follow a course north along Bobcaygeon Road, then veer right onto a cross-country trail that takes them behind the arena and across the fairgrounds. The trail then crosses Bobcaygeon Road, heading west.

At this point, dogs and drivers face one of the major challenges of the race: rising before them is The Hill — a test of stamina for all. From the top, the teams follow a rolling route over unopened township road allowances and trails cut especially for the race.

The teams follow the wilderness trail to the designated turn-around loop, then retrace the course to Minden. The four-dog teams run four miles, the eight dog teams eight miles, as required by the sanctioning regulations of the International Sled Dog Racing Association (ISDRA).

Head-on passing along the trail tests the nerve of the dogs and the control the driver has over the team. Going home, The Hill presents a new challenge, this time for downhill control.

The driver must be careful not to let the sled overtake the team while still taking full advantage of gravity.

It is obvious, as the teams make their final sprint up Main Street, that dogs and drivers have all pushed themselves to their limit.

Martin Family Week

January 6 to 12, 1992

Whereas the Martin Family has generously supported the Minden Sled Dog Derby, also known as the Minden Technical Challenge, since its second running in 1988, providing purses and administrative support for the last seven years;

And whereas the Minden Sled Dog Derby, as a result, in part, of this support, has become the largest limited-class speed sled-dog race in the world;

And whereas the Minden Sled Dog Derby has become a major tourist attraction for the area, drawing visitors from across Ontario and beyond;

And whereas the Minden Sled Dog Derby provides a substantial economic benefit to the community;

And whereas the Minden Sled Dog Derby provides an enjoyable community focus through the involvement of over 100 volunteers during the race weekend;

And whereas the Minden Sled Dog Derby provides an outstanding family weekend both for the community and for visitors;

Now, therefore I am pleased to proclaim the week of January 6 to 12, 1992 Martin Family Week in Minden.
